

Michael Andrew's Next Swing • Hot New Dining

Orlando®

The City's Magazine

OUR OFFICES, OURSELVES

Take a peek into five Orlando-area offices that reflect the personalities of their occupants

April 2007

$3.95

www.orlandomagazine.com

BEST OF ORLANDO
BALLOT INSIDE

AMAZING

BY CHRISTY SMITH

Three Orlando homes went from wallflower to wonderful with smart exterior (and interior) remodels.

Before

TRANSFORMATIONS:

EXTERIOR

Remodeling your home is a distinctly different experience from building a new home. With a new house, you usually drive by the future home's worksite to check its progress; then you return to your existing residence to wait for completion.

When you remodel your existing home, your home is the worksite. You live with the project from start to finish every moment of the day. Yet, when you remodel you have the added benefit of being experienced at living in your home. You know its idiosyncrasies. You know what works and what doesn't work for your lifestyle. Remodeling gives you the chance make your home best fit you.

Before

Windows on the Water

PSG Construction worked with Alex Stone Architect to bring this 6,227-square-foot Bay Point home up to date. Originally built for the homeowners' 25th wedding anniversary, the two-story home was recently renovated to commemorate the owners' 50th wedding anniversary.

Beginning at the stained-glass front doors, the home reflects the couple's love of water and nature. The entryway was expanded to two stories, adding to the open feel of the home.

The home's bright, clear-blue color palette and spectacular views of Lake Tibet are captivating. "You have a huge

Bay Point home renovation
by PSG Construction